Coleman Old Timer And Frank Slide Survivor Passes Away

Mr. Edgar Ash better known as "Ed" to old timers here and believed to be the longest resident in Coleman, passed away in the Crows Nest Pass Municipal Hospital at 1 A.M. Sunday, August 19th, after a lengthy illness at the age of 86 years.

Mr. Ash was born in Carbonear, Newfoundland on July 30th, 1876 and came to Frank, Alberta in 1902. He was a Pittsop at the Frank mine and was amongst the rescue workers at the time of the disastrous Frank Slide in April, 1903. Ed and his family lived in the west end of Frank, that part of the town being missed by the "Slide" and thus were among the survivors of the tragedy. Mr. Ash moved to Blairmore for a short period and then took up residence in Coleman about 1904. He worked for the International Coal & Coke Co. Ltd. as a miner for a number of years until he suffered an accident causing the loss of his leg. When he resumed work, he was given the job as lampman for the mine which position he held until his retirement in 1954. Mr. Ash had spent the past 58 years in Coleman and was a member of the Protestant faith and a former member of the Orange Lodge. During the years of his retirement until his health began to fail about six months ago, such things as his home, lawn and trees were his daily hobby. Mr. and Mrs. Ash celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on May 21, when a family reunion dinner was held at their home. His every day friendliness and cheerful smile will be missed by his old friends and neighbors in Coleman.

Survivors include his wife, Catherine of Coleman, four sons, Norman and Howard, both of Coleman Roy and Eldred both of Victoria, B.C., three daughters, Audrey, Mrs. W. Smith of Winnipeg, Man., Rita Amell of Edmonton, Edith, Mrs. Douglas Malcolm in France, two brothers, Willis and Stewart in Eastern Canada and a sister in England. He was predeceased by a daughter Viria in 1932.

Funeral services were conducted from St. Paul's United Church at 2 P.M. on Thursday, August 23rd. Rev. K. Iwassa of Blairmore officiating. Hymns sung were "Abide With Me" and "Jesus Keep Me Near The Cross".

Funeral bearers were Messrs J. Owen, Penny, W. Fraser, H. Nelson, J. W. Williams and W. Hoggan. Interment in the Union Cemetery. Hall's Funeral Home of Blairmore were in charge of the arrangements.

IN ORDER TO PUBLISH reports of meetings of various organizations, it would help if a press correspondent was appointed by each one to send in the news. It is impossible for a reporter to attend all the meetings, therefore co-operation would be appreciated, and at the same time publicity would be assured for the meetings.

Joller of Vancouver, B.C. and Supreme Honored Lady Florida Dundon of Wetaskiwin. It was announced that the lodge had a per capita donation of $18.00 per man. SOCIAL CREDIT NAMES MACLEOD FED. CANDIDATE

The first federal nominating Convention of any political party in Canada for the expected federal election was held by the Social Credit party in the Macleod riding, Ernie Patterson, who placed second to a Conservative in the recent federal election, was again nominated to contest the seat.

Mr. Patterson, a Claresholm school teacher, was nominated by acclamation. He has been active in the Social Credit movement since university, having served as the provincial President of the Alberta Young Social Credit League. At the national leadership convention held in Ottawa in July, 1961, he presented the policy committee report on National Defence and Foreign Affairs to the convention. Mr. Patterson polled 7,000 votes which helped to reduce the sitting members majority of 6,400 in 1958 to 2,600 in 1962.

H. A. "Bud" Olson, Member of Parliament for Medicine Hat, filled in for Dr. Robert Thompson, National Social Credit Leader, who had been scheduled to address the convention. Mr. Olson stated that "The Social Credit Party is the only party in Canada which has the answer to Canada's economic problems which have been created by the mismanagement of five years of Conservative administration. Mr. Diefenbaker had ample opportunity, with the largest majority ever obtained in Canadian history, to give good government, but failed to do so," stated the speaker.

Mr. Patterson in his acceptance speech, stated that the nominating convention was not being held to precipitate an election, but was being held to improve the organization in the constituency.

At the general meeting of the Constituency Association, held prior to the nominating convention, officers elected were: President—L. A. Buckwell, Ft. Macleod; First Vice President—Ellis Oviatt, Parkland; Second Vice President—Bill Turley, Ensign. Directors named were: Ed Root, Lamond; Gordon Cameron, High River; Jack Dickenson, Claresholm; Joe Hanrahan, Coleman. Members ex officio: Hon. James Hartley, Minister of Public Works and M. L. A. for Macleod; Hon. Peter Dawson, Speaker of the Legislature and M.L.A. for Little Bow; Rev. E. G. Hansell, M.L.A. for Okotoka—High River; Bill Kovach, M.L.A. Pincher Creek—Crowsnest.

OF MANY THINGS
(By Ambrose Hills)The Canadian Team

While we differ a lot among ourselves, politically, socially and religiously, most of us can agree that we want Canada to do well in the world. In short, with all our differences, we are each on the Canadian team.

We have handicaps and advantages. We should take a look at both. I enjoyed reading a speech made by W. E. Williams, a transplanted American, the other day. He is president and general manager of the Procter & Gamble Company of Canada, and he was giving some of his opinions. "The first thing you must have in your mind," he told his audience, "is that Canada is different but not too different."

He is so right about that.

We look much like Americans, drive the same automobiles, shop at similar stores. . . There are, however, tremendous differences.

For example, this country is 4,000 miles wide, three thousand high . . . and that means we have more land than the States. However, only 8 per cent of our vast land mass is inhabited. How many Canadians realize that some 92 per cent of our country is uninhabited? Not many. And our weather is pretty rough for six months of the year, whereas a large part of the USA is bathed in warm sunshine the whole year round.

Mr. Williams, from his personal experience, told of the difficulties experienced in marketing products in Canada. — The long freight hauls, the varying temperatures, and then the two official languages.

In Canada, we have 18 million people, — speaking two official languages. In the USA they have 186 millions, with a single language.

Reading these things may suggest that we haven't a ghost of a chance to keep up with the world. Mr. Williams suggested that "The greatest illusion since the Indian rope trick was the Canadian dollar at a premium to the U. S. dollar, since productivity of a country determines the value of its currency."

Yet Mr. Williams is here. His company is doing a thriving business. Canada is, he says, a good place to live and work.

Work is a key word. If we face our problems and work hard, so that our income matches our outgo, Canada can continue to do well. That means that everybody on the Canadian team needs to pitch in and give at least as much as he expects to get.

It's always a pleasure to be able to tell our readers about a new project which we feel will make a worthwhile contribution to the life of this Province. Such a program has recently been announced by editors of Alberta weekly newspapers and Calgary Power Limited. "We felt we wanted to give deserved recognition to our many fine young citizens who add so much to the life of their families and communities," commented G. H. Milligan, Director of Public Information and Consumer Services for Calgary Power Ltd. "With this thought in mind we decided to join with Alberta weekly newspaper editors in sponsoring a program of Junior Citizenship awards," Mr. Milligan continued.

The area of eligibility is wide. It covers every boy and girl in Alberta 6 to 16 years of age, who, between September 1st, 1961 and September 1st, 1962, performed an act of physical heroism, or did outstanding work with a church, school, social or other organization. It includes any boy or girl who organized a worthwhile project, achieved outstanding scholastic success under adverse circumstances or who showed great courage in illness.

In this area alone, we feel there must be many such young people and we urge the readers of this newspaper to send in their nominations to the editor. Your nominations should include the name, address and age of the young person you nominate, together with your name and address and details of the particular feat which they accomplished. Nominations should be made not later than September 30th 1962.

There will be six JUNIOR CITIZEN AWARD winners who will receive a Canada Savings Bond, and a framed citation of their achievement presented to them by Calgary Power officials in Calgary.

"Entries are now being received by editors throughout Alberta," Mr. Milligan added, "but we are anxious that no worthy boy or girl be overlooked, so we suggest that you send your nomination in promptly."

Dr. L. E. Kindt, M.P., Leaves for Ottawa

Dr. Lawrence E. Kindt, M.P., is leaving for Ottawa Wednesday August 22nd, to be gone about a week. The purpose of the trip is to attend to constituency business, and also to discuss possible new legislation for the coming session of Parliament opening in September (suggestions from constituents are always welcome). A delegation from the Council of Willow Creek Municipality is to meet with officials of Crown Assets Disposal Corporation and Dr. Kindt in Ottawa for the purpose of discussing matters pertaining to the Claredholm airport. Certain details concerning Official Opening of the Trans-Canada Highway at the Summit of Rogers Pass, Glacier National Park on Monday, September 3rd at 1:00 p.m. will be discussed. Everybody is invited and welcome to attend this Official Opening by the Prime Minister, and in fact, should make it a point to attend, if possible, but take a lunch along because restaurant accommodations are few and far between. It should be clarified that the Premier of B.C. opened only the B.C. portion of the Highway, and the function on September 3rd is to officially open the entire coast-to-coast Trans-Canada Highway. Dear Tom:

Herewith money order to cover my subscription to the Coleman Journal. I have been wanting to write you a nice long letter for some time giving a "run down" of my past activities but as I am not feeling too good at the present I am quite unable to do so, perhaps later.

Trusting you and Mrs. Holstead are enjoying good health.

Lighting Your Garden At Night

Long as the summer days are, they are too short to satisfy garden lovers whose handwork is inevitably "blackened out" when the sun goes down. That is, unless they go in for outdoor lighting.

Perish the thought that the lighted garden is a luxury. Any garden, be it ever so modest, can come to life during the evening hours. Nor is garden lighting a necessarily expensive investment.

When it comes to methods of wiring for outdoor lighting, the homeowner or renter has these alternatives:

For temporary wiring to a distant location, portable power outlets, equipped with up to 40 feet of outdoor cord, are available. They are mounted on a short pole which can be spiked into the ground and plugged into a convenient outlet at the house or garage.

Use of temporary lighting equipment on a close-to-house terrace or garden area is facilitated by weather-proof outlets installed on the outside of the house.

Any temporary method of outdoor lighting calls for taking two precautions: (1) avoid overloading any one household circuit which, on the average, carries only 1700 watts; (2) protect extension cords, wherever they leave the house or garage, against damage from closing doors or windows. For instance, insert a wood panel, the width of a window and about two or three inches high, and bring the cord out through a hole cut in the board.

For families who own their homes and have no intention of moving in the foreseeable future, or for those who have a new home in the planning stage, one of the best procedures is to install underground cable.

Then, weatherproof outlets can be installed on patio or terrace and throughout the garden area.

Cable laying must conform to local regulations, and in order to meet these specifications, all wiring jobs should be turned over to a dependable electrical contractor.

Weatherproof cords and moisture-proof connections are vital in all outdoor installations. Work in a dry garden when installing garden lighting, for any moisture, even dew, must be guarded against.

Be sure to turn off the electricity before installing lighting equipment and before making any replacement, even if only a light bulb is being replaced.

Most boats suitable for skiing

Almost any kind of boat can be used for skiing, provided it is suitable.

able for the motor that powers it. Motors of 10 horsepower—even 7½ h.p. on light, broad-beamed boats—can tow a skier weighing up to 110 pounds, but 16 horsepower or more is usually needed to get a 170-pound man up on top of the water.

The skis are usually made of wood or fibre-glass and are from 6 to 8 inches wide and from 5½ to 6 feet long.

For most beginners, using outboard power, experts recommend a 6-foot length and a width of 7 inches.

Four and four-and-one-half-foot skis are available for children, and so are a variety of other sizes for use by advanced skiers.

The skis are equipped with adjustable foot bindings made of rubber. These slip off readily in case of the inevitable spills and are one of the reasons that there is no record of anyone being seriously injured in the usual types of water skiing.

The tow-rope, of half-inch manila or nylon, should be at least 60 and preferably 75 feet long, with a hand grip at one end.

The tow rope should be attached as near the centre of the boat as possible, to make steering easier and guard against tipping on turns.

A v-type harness tied to eyebolts in the transom about three inches to either side of the motor is recommended.

The tow rope should not be attached to the lifting handles.

They might pull out and, because the handles are located near the sides of the boat, the boat might tip on sharp turns.

Alberta Record For Past 50 Years Speaks For Itself

Old-fashioned costumes, parades featuring carriages, democrats and buggies as well as sleek modern convertibles, sports events, speeches, and plenty of good food are the order of the day in many towns and villages throughout Alberta which this year are celebrating their Golden Jubilees.

It was the establishment of Alberta as a province in 1905, followed by the completion of the railway, in 1912, which sparked the influx of settlers. These pioneers journeyed to their new homes in flat River carts, buckboards, covered wagons. A large number of them probably travelled in the "fast new railroad."

In the intervening years the vast expanses of grassy prairie have become waving fields of golden grain, dotted here and there by oil derricks. The log shacks have been replaced by comfortable, modern homes, and winding narrow paths have given way to broad, straight highways. The trip from Calgary to Edmonton, which once took eight days, can now be accomplished in four hours by road, or in forty-five minutes by air. The puffing steam engines which pulled the first trains into Alberta are now Museum pieces. In their place, giant diesel units speed across the provinces in a matter of hours, and "dayliners" — combined engine and coach in one unit — run fast, regular service between major centres of the province.

The population of the province of Alberta has increased from a little more than 375,000 in 1912 to its present 1,331,944.

The year of 1912 also saw the organization of the Department of Municipal Affairs, under the first Minister, Hon. A. J. McLean. He was succeeded by the Hon. Chas. Stewart, who later served as premier of Alberta, then as a cabinet minister in the federal government.

In the first annual report of the Department, the Deputy Minister wrote: "The beginning of the year 1912 marked a new era in municipal affairs in this province by the creating of a department to deal with municipal affairs. Alberta is the third province of the Dominion to have a department of this kind; the provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan already having municipal affairs departments."

The establishment of such a department has, I think, been amply justified by the work which has been dealt with during the past year — the incorporation of new towns and the establishment of new villages featured quite large in the work of the year."

New villages established in 1912 were: Blackie, Carbon, Chauvin, Clive, Consort, Halkirk, Hanna, Irma, Mirror, St. Paul, Sylvan Lake, Three Hills, Vulcan, Veteran, Rimbey, and Acadia Valley.

Town status has since been attained by Hanna, St. Paul, Sylvan Lake, Vulcan and Three Hills.

Five towns were incorporated in 1912, but one of them, Diamond City, failed to survive, and was disorganized in 1937. The remaining towns are Bow Island, Coronation, Redcliff and Staveland.

Three further steps went into the record for 1912. First, Fort Macleod, which had been a town since December 31, 1892, came "under the provisions of the Town Act" on March 20, 1912. Next, North Edmonton, an organized village since January 20, 1910, was annexed by Edmonton on July 22, 1912, and finally, Strathcona, which had been made a town on May 29, 1899, and a city in 1907, was amalgamated with Edmonton under an Act of the Legislature effective February 1, 1912.

The record of the past 50 years speaks for itself. Splendid progress has been made by Alberta's rural and urban municipalities.

Pioneers there were in the municipal field and there can be little doubt that many Albertans, honored for laying the foundations of our social and economic growth, are also responsible for the early development of our municipal system. The plain truth is that it would be difficult to separate the growth of the province from that of the local governments.

In addition to all the Golden Jubilee celebrations, the town of Cardston marked its 75th anniversary of the arrival of the first Mormon settlers from Utah with a full week of celebration topped off by a two-day rodeo.

Edouard J. Rouleau Passes July 31st

(PINCHER CREEK ECHO)

A career of nearly forty years in weekly newspaperdom was terminated on Tuesday morning, July 31st, with the passing of Edouard John Rouleau of Pincher Creek, former editor and publisher of the Pincher Creek Echo.

Interment followed in the family plot at Archmount Memorial Gardens in Lethbridge. Pallbearers were Leith Sandford, Allan Leith, Edward Lunn, Arthur Sandford, Colin Hedderick and Henry Hammond.

Surviving besides his wife, Lottie are two sons, James and David of Pincher Creek; one daughter, Miss Winona Rouleau of High River; his mother, Mrs. Kay McIntosh of Vancouver; four sisters, Mrs. A. (Gladys) Gammie of Victoria, Mrs. E. (Winona) Chapman and Mrs. J. (Peggy) Strachan of Vancouver; and Mrs. Elsie Bavington of Kaslo, B.C.; two brothers, William in the U.S., and James of Vancouver; and six grandchildren.

Fun? or Funeral? Decide Now—CHSC

A summer vacation trip in a car can be fun, or it can end in a funeral. It's up to the driver, declares the Canadian Highway Safety Council sponsoring the Canadian side of the international vacation-time safe-driving campaign, Slow Down and Live.

"The driver makes that decision," the Council believes. "He can decide to take his time, explore side roads, cover minimum mileage each day, visit a little, see the sights and arrive rested and happy. Or he can race to break time and speed records, gripe at others who hamper his mad pace, see nothing on the way and arrive with indigestion, exhaustion and tension."

"The racer," the Council says, "may never arrive. His snarling, boastful pace is filled with hazards. Besides, he may take the restful driver with him when his fast pace catches up with him."

Slow Down and Live—"Take it Easy, and Have Fun".
